

EVOK joins the Sequotech Group

Delémont, June 25, 2024 – EVOK, a trusted and established IT services provider based in Fribourg, is joining the Sequotech Group. The integration of EVOK into the Swiss IT services group aligns with Sequotech's ambition to consolidate its position as the leading IT services group in Western Switzerland. EVOK joins the group's existing companies – dbi services, UDITIS, exxo it-services and avency – which now employs around 250 employees. Sequotech thus continues its growth strategy, which began in November 2020 with the investment of Verium, a multi-family office based in Zurich. EVOK's CEO Antoine Rosset and CTO Aurélien Perret both remain with the company. Moreover, they become shareholders of Sequotech and join the group's management team.

Leading position in Western Switzerland

Sequotech's acquisition of EVOK expands its presence in Western Switzerland, particularly in Fribourg, Vaud and Geneva. It also enhances the group's portfolio with EVOK's leading cloud and managed services expertise and specialist services. Drawing on the expertise of the Fribourg-based company's experienced and highly qualified team, Sequotech is set to become the region's leading IT services provider.

"This acquisition is an important milestone for Sequotech and fully aligns with our strategy to expand our presence in Western Switzerland, reinforcing our commitment to delivering high-quality IT services," says David Hueber, CEO of Sequotech.

Antoine Rosset, CEO of EVOK: "Becoming part of the Sequotech Group allows us to benefit from the advantages of a large organization while keeping our independent spirit. Sequotech brings together companies that share common vision and values, which allows for great agility within the group. In addition, this collaboration brings new chances for growth and opens up exciting opportunities for our team."
